

Our private beach beckons. . .

Personally, we can never get enough of this view. The tranquility found here at the southern tip of Discovery Bay has made this the perfect spot to unwind.

Make use of the gas grill and patio furniture, or just sit back and enjoy the view from the comfort of a deck chair.

Wander on beaches, protected from harsh winds. Better yet. . .harvest some of our bounty and pass the time fishing, shrimping and clamming (in season).

No pets please. And, if you must smoke, please do so outdoors only.

The Fairmount Beach House is perched on the edge of Discovery Bay, only 15 minutes from Port Townsend.

One of the three registered historic seaports in the U.S., Port Townsend is known for its fine Victorian architecture and small town charm.

With the Olympic National Park its center, the Olympic Peninsula offers some of the best hiking, camping and fishing adventures in the Northwest.

In 1792, Captain George Vancouver first entered Discovery Bay. During the next century, the area's tall straight evergreens were cut for ships' spars.

In 1858, the Port Discovery Mill was sited not too far west of here. For 30 years the mill prospered. Port Discovery boomed. In 1891, the mill closed.

Those smuggling illegal Chinese immigrants, liquor and opium still found Port Discovery easy access from Canada.

Today, the small towns of Port Discovery, Maynard, Fairmount and Uncas are but names from the past.

The Fairmount Beach House

“We invite you to stay at our beach house. It was built more than a century ago by a seafaring captain, desiring a comfortable refuge.

“We recently restored the two-bedroom getaway (Rich’s childhood home) to its original enchanting beauty.
